This article is more than 3 years old. Evolution got a little more complicated in Pokémon GO last night. Originally it was a very simple thing: there is candy grabbing, walking and transferring Pokémon, which I then used to turn the Squirrels into wartortles, the Bellsprouts of Weepinbells and more. In most cases, that's still how it works after the great Gen 2 update, except for a few notable exceptions. Certain Pokémon now require either a steel coat, a sunstone, a king rock, a dragon scale or an upgrade to progress, and these objects are all random drops from Pokéstops. Break them down: The metal jacket transforms Onix into Steelix or Scyther's Scizor. The king's rock turns Slowpoke into slowking, polwhirl politoed. The dragon's scale turns Seadra into Kingdra. The solar stone transforms into a gloom Pokédex as quickly as possible: I have plenty of Onix candy, but I still don't have a metal coat to snag my Steelix. The introduction of evolutionary elements reflects the progress of Pokémon Red and Pokémon Blue for Pokémon Gold and Pokémon Silver. While Red and Blue were evolutionary elements like thunder and fire stones, elements like metal jackets and king rock did not appear until the second generation. What's left is the rate of decline we're going to get for this kind of thing. I've spinned maybe 30 Pokéstops or so and haven't seen anything, but that's hardly a giant problem yet. It is worth noting that, like most things in Pokémon GO, this predominantly favours players from Pokéstop-dense cities over their rural counterparts. Previously, the lack of Pokéstops was mostly a problem for those who could not keep their Pokéball offerings, but the low decline in evolutionary products combined with the lack of Pokéstops can effectively make it impossible for rural players to get certain creatures. There's nothing new there, unfortunately. Evolution method of the new Gen II Pokémon Kingdra and how to make the Dragon Scale. Gen 2 is finally here, and with it comes not only the new Pokémon as Kingdra, but new elements like Dragon Scale as well. This, in turn, means new evolutionary methods: Dragon Scale was used for kingdra's development in the main Pokémon games by keeping the product in trading - a mechanic who is not in Pokémon GO at all as things stand. So with this in mind, how does Seadra evolve into Kingdra, and likewise how do you get the Dragon Scale of Pokémon GO? The answers are all that can be found below, but while you are here, it is worth that a number of other new, special evolutions work in exactly the same way: Sinnoh Stone, Metal Coat for Steelix and Scizor, King's Rock for slowking and politoed, Sun Stone for Bellossom and Sunflora, and Up-Grade for Porygon2. Seadra's development into Kingra in the main series of Pokémon involved a somewhat complicated process. Not only do you have to find yourself a Dragon scale of evolution, you also need to find yourself a trading partner because Seadra had to trade while making the item in order to evolve. Now, in Pokémon GO, things are a little easier. You still need a decent piece of Candy to evolve into Seadra, but you don't need a trading partner -- you simply need to get your hands on dragon scale and evolve your Seadra from the same game menu as any other Candy-based evolution. Seadra's Kingdra Evolution Cost - 1 Dragon Scale and 100 Horsea Candy. Pokémon Go Tips and Tricks We've been updated with every Gen 3 so far. Need more help with Pokémon GO? In addition to Pokémon Go tips, tricks and guides, you can find Gen 2 Pokédex about how to catch the latest creatures using special elements such as the Dragon Scale and other methods. It also explains greatly about gym reworking update, raids, raid battles, and raid bosses, how to make legendary Pokémon, and promo codes, and there's also info changes on how to make PokéCoins, Eevee evolutions, Egg Hatching Distances, the tier list and the best Pokémon, the best moves and movesets and Buddy distances. Plus, you can read about the Pokémon Go Plus accessory works and even our XP chart. Pokémon Go Tips and Tricks We've been updated with every Gen 3 so far. The evolutionary method itself is relatively simple, the only other question is where to find yourself in dragon scale's Pokémon Go.Well, like many other elements, it's mostly down to chance: Dragon Scales are found in Pokéstops, albeit with a twist. Fortunately, there are some strategies here after all! A special evolutionary element decreases on the seventh day of the PokéStop Daily Bonus series. There's no guarantee which evolution element you'll get, but with only five in the game, at least you'll hopefully not have to wait too long to hold all the items you need. Here's the low point! 28 Feb 2020 Previous 1 to 4 Next: PokéStops and Use Of Evolution Items Source: iMore/Rene Ritchie The Pokémon Go, most Pokémon that can evolve for this accumulating enough candy of the species and press the evolve button. However, some selected ones need specific Evolution items in addition to the usual stock number of candies. Each generation has brought new Evolution elements, although not all can be acquired in the same way. Fortunately, we're here to walk you through how to get and use these unique items. By the way, what are Evolution elements? Source: Niantic Evolution items items, which, combined with a set amount of candy, can be used to evolve some species of Pokémon: Sun Stone: Evolving obscurity in Bellossom, and Sunken in Sunflora. King's Rock: Develops Poliwhirl's politoed, and slowpoke's slowking. Metal Coat: Develops onix from Steelix, and Scyther from Scizor. Dragon Scale: Evolve from Seadra to Kingdra. UpGrade: Develops Porygon in Porygon 2. Sinnoh Stone: Develops Sneasel from Weavile, Electabuzz from Electivire, Roselia from Roserade, Rhydon from Rhyperior, Murkrow from Honchkrow, Porygon2 from Porygon-z, Togetic from Togeikis, Magmar from Magmortar, Misdreavus from Mismagius, Gligar from Gligzor, Dusclops from Dusknor, Swinub from Mamoswine, Aipom from Ambipom, Yanma from Yanmega, Tangela from Tangrowth, Lickitung from Lickilicky, Kirlia (male only) from Gallade, and Snorunt (female only) develops Frostlass. Unova Stone: Develops Pansage in Simisage, Pansear in Simisear, Panpour in Simipour, Lampent in Chandeleur, Minccino in Cincinno, Munna in Muchama, and Eleektrik in Eleektross. Glacial Bait Module: Evolve from Eevee to Glaceon. Mossy Bait Module: Evolve from Eevee to Leafeon. Magnetic bait module: Develops nasal pass from Probopass, and magnetron from Magnezno. If and when you get one, you will see a list of items next to Poké Balls, Drinks, Lucky Eggs, etc. What level should you be at in order to get an evolution item? It is really level 10? Many of the more powerful elements of Pokémon Go will only be available if you reach higher levels, such as Max Revive. Evolution elements are the same. Currently it seems to unlock only Level 10. Arguably, getting all the Pokémon and candies you need to use all the Development Articles should take about as long, if not longer, than getting to level 10. But still, it would be nice to be able to collect Evolution items right from the start. Can you just buy Evolution items from the Pokémon Shop? Not usually. Unlike Lucky Eggs, Incense, and Storage Upgrades, you can't buy most evolution stones from the Pokémon Shop no matter how many Poké coins you have or are willing to spend. The only exception to this is the elemental bait modules. These objects are not strictly evolutionary, but the only way to make four evolutions right now. How to get Evolution elements in Pokémon Go Source: iMore/Rene Ritchie Most Evolution items are issued by PokéStops, as are Revives, Ultra Balls, and Razz berries. Visit PokéStop to see if it's a spin, and there's a small chance sun stone, king's rock, metal coat, dragon scale, or upgrade, and then pop out along with the usual Poké Balls and drinks. However, the Sinnoh Stones and Unova stones are harder to obtain. Currently, these rewards are specific research tasks and research breakthroughs, as well as PvP battles and Team Go Rocket battles. Is Elemental Lure modules probably the easiest to get, as you can buy Pokéshop Do 7-day stripes to guarantee the Evolution element? Source: iMore/ Rene Ritchie After the launch of Gen 2, the first 7-day series resulted in so many people that Evolution Items was hoped to be a sure thing for the next 7-day series. But it didn't. On March 19, 2017, Pokémon Go restored the guaranteed Evolution element to its 7-day series spin. The object is randomly defined, so you don't know what you're getting. Maybe it's all you need in a row, or it can be the same over and over again. I, for one, have more updates than I've ever caught porygon! But it's guaranteed! Previous 1 4 Next: PokéStops and Use Evolution Items Previous 2 4 Next: Sinnoh Stones and lure mods low. Very low. The meanest. You might have guessed that a particular PokéStop has a 20% chance of giving Pokémon Eggs. Max Potton and Max Revive can be closer to 1%. Evolution items seem to be even lower in the rate of decline. Something like 0.3%. Some people get them after a few hundred spins. Others, a few thousand. Yes. The meanest. There are also five different types, which makes the chances of any specific Evolution element even lower. Random number generators - and mathematics - are the tricky thing, though. At 20%, you'd think you'd get an egg for every 5 PokéStops, but as anyone who has played Pokémon Go for anything for a long time knows, you might go for 10 or 15 stops before making one and then get 6 in a row. The same proved true for Evolution Items, just an even bigger extremist. The average seems to be one item for every 300 or so spins. But again, it's means you can get 10 items out of 3,000 spins, but go 2000 spins between getting items. It took 30 days and 2660 spins to make at least one of each Evolution batch. (I ended up with 3 extra Sun Stones and 1 extra King's Rock.) This includes a 10-day period when it is spin 1073 times without doing anything. Despite the rumors to the contrary, neither the dude was at the time nor the time of day, it seemed that any direct contact with the items I received. Once you get an Evolution item, can't you just keep using it or not burn it out? Evolution elements are only used once. Yes. Tears. You need one for every evolution. So in order to convert two Onixes into two Steelixes, you need two metal jackets. To develop a Poliwhirl into politoed and Slowpoke, you need two King Rocks. Spin. Spin. Spin. Spin. Spin. Spin. When you finally get an Evolution element, how do you use it? Source: iMore/Rene Ritchie Use Evolution element for the easy part. Tap the Poké Ball button at the bottom of the game screen. Tap the Pokémon button in the lower-left corner of the menu screen. Touch the Pokémon you want to evolve. Tap the second/lower Evolution button. Tap this element on Pokémon to confirm. (It shows the evolutionary element you want to consume.) Enjoy! Once evolution is complete, the Evolution element can be spent. Help me how to ditch all evolution items clogging up your bag? Source: iMore/Rene Ritchie While it can be difficult to obtain the first few Evolution items, some are clearly more useful than others. There will probably never be enough Sinnoh Stones, but you only need a few upgrades, even if you keep living in Pokédex. So if you're sitting on a dozen upgrades or dragon scales, you might want to clean some space up your inventory. Tap the Poké Ball button at the bottom of the game screen. Tap The items button in the lower-right corner of the menu screen. Tap delete (looks like a trash can) on the right side of the Evolution Stone you want to drop. Press Plus or Minus and select the number of items you want to discard. Press Yes to confirm. Previous 2 4 Next: Sinnoh Stones and Bait Mods Previous 3 4 Next: Unova Stones Source: Niantic Gen 4, new new methods have been introduced. One of these is the Sinnoh Stones, which are elements that can develop many Pokémon. How do I get the Sinnoh Stones? You can get them after a 7-day PokéStop series, like any other evolution item, with Special Research Tasks, or struggling with three team leaders on community day, or doing a PvP battle with another trainer. How does the Sinnoh Stones work? Like all other evolutionary elements. If you have one and the right amount of Candy, just go to the site of Pokémon you want to evolve and evolve away. Which Pokémon are evolving using the Sinnoh Stones? There's a lot of them. Needed to evolve into a whopping 18 Pokémon. Sinnoh Stone is currently the most useful of evolution items. Here's the current list: Sneasel from Weavile Electabuzz to Electivire Roselia to Roserade Rhydon to Rhyperior Murkrow to Honchkrow Porygon2 to Porygon-Z Togetic to Togeikiss Magmar to Magmortar Misdreavus to Mismagii Us Glig'gar from Gligzor Dusclops to Dusknor Swinub to Mamoswine Aipom to Ambipom Yanma to Yanmega Tangela to Tangrowth Lickitung to Lickilicky Kirlia to Gallade Snorunt to Frostlass What are using lures evolve Pokémon now too? The lures are the other 4th gen Evolution Item, although only the special ones will evolve into Pokémon. The three special baits for Pokémon are magnetic lures Mossy Lures and Glacial Lures. How do I get to these special baits? You can buy them for 200 PokéCoins in the store. That's it. How can I develop a Pokémon with the help of such baits? You have to use one of the lures on PokéStop as you can with a normal bait module. In addition to attracting a particular type of Pokémon to PokéStop, it allows evolution for that Pokémon until it spins pokéStop and stays in range. Which Pokémon evolve with these baits? Glacial Lure: Eevee's Glaceon Mossy Bait: Eevee's Leafeon Magnetic Bait: Magnetron by Magnezno and Nosepass at Probopass Previous 3 4 Next: Unova Stones Source: The Pokemon Company With the Advent of Gen 5, new evolutionary methods have been introduced. One of these is the Unova Stones, which are elements that can develop many Pokémon. Unova Stones is currently being used to replace Elemental Evolution Stones in basic games. How do I get unova stones? Currently, the easiest way to see Unova Stones is through a 7-day research breakthrough, but they are also rewarded with certain special research tasks and new Team Go Rocket Leader battles. One does Unova Stones work? Like all other evolutionary elements. If you have one and the right amount of Candy, just go to the site of Pokémon you want to evolve and evolve away. Which Pokémon are developing with the help of the Unova Stones? Only a few so far, but expect to have to add more to this list as more Gen 5 will be introduced.
